

delegates vote for Mr. Harrison. Mr. Quay then ordered a new roll call and put a teller in charge of the roll. The result as announced gave eleven votes for Mr. Harrison.

CONTESTS ADJUSTED.

The Sub-Committee of Seven Finishes Its Work.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 6.—The sub-committee of seven, to whom was referred the several contests for seats in the convention, concluded their labors this evening. The Louisiana case was decided against the Warmoth delegates, a victory for the Kellogg faction. The contests from North Carolina, which were not filed until the committee assembled in Chicago were decided as follows: In the fourth district Williamson was given the seat of Nichols; in the sixth district the contestants and contestants were each given half a vote; in the seventh district Dr. Mott was given a vote and the contestants, Waizer and Bailey, a half vote each. In the Mississippi case which was decided on Saturday a motion to reconsider was made and carried, and then the contestants were all seated by a vote of four to three. The motion now goes to the full committee for approval, and it is conceded that the action of the sub-committee in throwing out Harrison's votes, about forty in all, will be sustained. In the North Carolina contests Colonel Canady, committee man, says that no change in the vote will be effected by the action of the committee.

Wisconsin Organizes.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 6.—Wisconsin delegates held an interesting session at their rooms in the Lumber Exchange this afternoon. Ex-Senator Spooner presided. Speeches were made by Mr. Spooner, H. C. Payne, T. R. Reed and others. The following representatives in the organization of the convention were selected: Chairman, John C. Spooner; vice president, Isaac Stephenson; secretary, A. J. Turner. Committee on resolutions, Lucius Fairchild; on credentials, A. Smith; on organization, W. F. Conger; on rules, Charles A. Booth; to notify nominees for president, Thomas N. Blackstock; to notify nominees for vice president, T. R. Reed.

A motion was made to re-elect H. C. Payne a member of the national committee, but Mr. Payne suggested that Senator Sawyer be chosen in his stead.

Ohio Breaks Even.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 6.—The Ohio delegation organized tonight by electing Gov. McKinley chairman, on motion of ex-Governor Forsaker. C. S. Brown, secretary; W. E. Crumrine, committee on credentials; G. C. Nash on organization; Judge Ambler, rules; and ex-Governor Forsaker, resolutions. The fight came on the selection of a national committee. W. C. Lemmar and William Hahn were put in nomination. Lemmar received twenty-one votes and Hahn twenty-three, two delegates who would have voted for Hahn being absent. This is regarded as a test vote and it is claimed about twenty-five for Harrison and twenty-one for Blaine.

Chauncey Depew's Great Effort.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 6.—Chauncey M. Depew will place President Harrison in nomination before the convention, and his speech in doing so will be the oratorical effort of his life. He told a reporter today, as he turned from kissing "Buster," his son, whom he met in the hallway outside the door of his room at the West, that he was about to begin on his speech nominating Mr. Harrison, and that he expected to devote most of the next twenty-four hours to it. It will first be heard in the convention, and no advance copies will be furnished to any one.

Missouri Delegates Meet.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 6.—The Missouri delegation met at 6 o'clock with Chauncey T. Filley in the chair. Not the least difficulty was encountered in agreeing informally upon organization, but when the question of continuing Mr. Filley as the state member of the national committee came up, a sharp contest was indicated and it was discovered that two delegates were absent. It was therefore suggested by Mr. Filley, and unanimously accepted, that formal action and everything should be postponed till tomorrow at 10 a. m.

David Benjamin's Will Probed.

MILWAUKEE, June 6.—The will of David M. Benjamin was filed in probate today. It disposes of an estate valued at $1,000,000. The widow is given the residence on Prospect avenue, and several small bequests are made to relatives. The remainder of the estate is divided between the widow and the two children.

Virginia Elects Mahone.

MINNEAPOLIS, June 6.—The Virginia delegation held a harmonious meeting at 5 o'clock, and elected General Mahone chairman. The general was named for a member of the executive committee, and re-elected, and various other delegates were elected members of the other committees.

Found in a Cistern.

EDMONTON, W. A., June 6.—The sensation caused through Rock county a few weeks ago by an assault upon a wife of Daniel Stone, a wealthy farmer in the town of Fulton, who has been blind for forty years, is revived by finding the body of Mrs. Stone in a cistern Friday. A post-mortem showed no water in either the lungs or stomach. Whether she came to her death by suicide or violent means is to be investigated by a coroner's jury.

CURRENT EVENTS.

A congress of beer brewers will be held next year.

The Eastman & Knapp Sash Company, New York, failed Saturday, with liabilities $60,000.

Samuel M. Wilson, the most distinguished member of the legal profession in San Francisco, died on Saturday.

While Neptune Miller, of La Pageville, Ga., was cleaning a gun his finger slipped. He loaded his gun and shot his head.

No tariff legislation will be called in the house during the convention week, a tariff agreement to that effect existing between the republicans and democrats.

Andy McCarthy, the well-known jockey and winner of many brilliant racing events, died in New York Saturday, the result of being thrown by Little Nell Wednesday.

The Canadian homestead colonization agent reports that he has just sent twenty-five Michigan families to the Canadian northwest, and will forward 100 more by August 1.

The annual report of the San Francisco produce exchange shows that the amount of wheat in California on June 1 was 3,000,000 bushels, as against 10,000,000 December 1, 1891.

HILL IN THE RACE

His Henchmen Meet in Tammany Hall

AND DECIDE TO NAME HIM

He Will Be Supported So Long as His Name Is Before the Chicago Convention.

New York, June 6.—The New York state delegates to the democratic national convention met in secret session in the Hoffman house at 8:45 p. m., Chairman Edward J. Murphy presiding. On roll call seventy members answered to their names. Senator Hill was absent. Secretary Detonest read a resolution offered by Gen. W. H. Slocum, instructing delegates to offer to the national convention the name of David B. Hill as a candidate for president and to vote for him until he is nominated, or as long as his name shall be before the convention. The resolution was received with loud applause. On roll call, beginning with the name of Roswell P. Flower, the resolution was adopted by six-ninety affirmative votes, the only negative being cast by Benjamin R. Wood.

AFTER THE FLOOD.

The Result of the Catastrophe at Titusville.

TITUSVILLE, Pa., June 6.—Over fifty dead have been recovered and perhaps fifty more not yet found, and at least $10,000,000 worth of property were destroyed by fire and flood. Nearly every house is a house of mourning, having lost either relatives or friends by the awful calamity of Sunday.

Oil City, Pa., June 6.—The day after the disaster at Oil City is drawing to a close, but it is only half known how many bodies are in the fields of smoldering debris which were blocks of dwellings two days ago. There is little reason to change the estimate given yesterday that 100 are dead. General Wiley said early this evening that 67 bodies had been received. It is impossible to ascertain just who is missing, as the people have become so widely scattered. At least 100 persons are injured, many of them fatally.

PUN IN THE HOUSE.

Many Measures Go Through, Including the Hatch Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—This was a "red letter day" in the house. Seven important measures were passed under suspension of the rules. It is the first time this session that the democrats have worked as a unit. The republican forces were largely depleted and they were totally unable to stem the tide of legislation that had set in. The democrats rallied to the support of every measure but one, that exempting state banks from taxation, which failed to pass. Among the measures passed were the anti-ophion bill, the resolution placing the river and harbor bill and the naval appropriation bill in conference; the resolution for the purchase of a site and the erection of a pedestal for a statue for General Sherman; bills admitting New Mexico and Arizona as states, and finally the legislative, executive and judicial appropriation bill. At times the house was in an uproar. At 5:30 the reading of the legislative bill was commenced; its reading occupied two hours. The house was in great disorder pending the consideration, but the bill was finally passed. Mr. McMillan (democrat) of Tennessee offered a resolution for the adjournment of congress on Saturday, July 4, which was referred to the committee on ways and means and at 8:10 p. m. the house adjourned until tomorrow.

Vest Speaks on Everything.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—The senate passed most of the day listening to a speech by Mr. Vest on the free wool bill, during which he discussed the silver question, the tariff and reciprocity in his usual ironical style and fired many rhetorical shafts at the republicans. No business was transacted.

BOUGHT FOR $25,000,000.

The Illinois Central Gets the Mississippi Valley Route.

New York, June 6.—It was announced on Wall street Saturday afternoon that the Illinois Central Railroad Company had purchased a controlling interest in the Louisville, New Orleans & Texas Railway Company. The purchase price is said to be $25,000,000 for the whole property, embracing 811 miles of railroad, together with elevators, wharves and land. Of this amount about $5,000,000 will be paid in cash and $20,000,000 in the 4 per cent bonds of the Illinois Central. The Louisville, New Orleans & Texas, or Mississippi Valley route as it is called, extends from Memphis to New Orleans by way of Greenville, Vicksburg and all the large towns on the Mississippi. It is the largest cotton-carrying road in the country and has besides a large traffic in timber and grain.

SAD LOSS OF LIFE.

Serious Railway Disaster Near South Carroll, Ky.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., June 6.—News was received here of a terrible accident which occurred on the Owensboro & Nashville railway about 9 o'clock Sunday morning near South Carroll, Ky., in which four persons were killed and a number injured. A covered excursion train, carrying three coaches and a baggage car which left Owensboro, Ky., at 7:30 o'clock collided with the regular northbound passenger train. Twenty-six persons, mostly colored excursionists, sustained injuries. As near as could be learned the accident was caused by Engineer Fabey disobeying orders in going beyond Stroud station, where the excursion was to sidetrack for the passenger train. Both engines were completely demolished. The negroes of Owensboro are wild with excitement because of exaggerated reports of the number of the killed.

Wheat's Recession.

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Some people here are taking of the possibility of John C. Nevin, the secretary of the cabinet, offering Elkins, Tracy and John W. Foster. There is probably nothing definite in the matter. William F. Wharton, first assistant

The house on Saturday passed the post office appropriation bill. Among the items inserted was one appropriating $22,000 for a branch office on the grounds of the Columbian exposition.

VALUE OF SLEEP.

Great Men Believe in Nature's Sweet Restorer.

"The habit of great men in the matter of sleep forms an interesting subject of inquiry," said Mr. E. W. Jacobs, of Boston, in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, "and I believe such an inquiry would show that those who have made the greatest mark on the world's history have always taken it in abundance. There is a popular belief that Napoleon took only four or five hours' rest, but to my mind the theory has grown out of the desire of his admirers to show that in this matter, as in all others, he differed from his fellows. As a matter of fact, it was impossible for him to sleep less than eight hours, but it is certain that, like the great generals in our own civil war, he availed himself of every opportunity to seek the greatest of all means of relief from fatigue. Even when considering his plans on the occasion of the greatest event of his military career, the battle of Waterloo, the hour left him before the decisive moment arrived was occupied with a snooze, which he took with deliberation, after giving instructions to one of his aides to arouse him at the given time. So great, indeed, was his love of a nap that his most trusted companions in arms showed a regard for his feelings on the subject by never disturbing him. Napoleon's case is only that of most military heroes and of most great men. Gladstone rarely takes less than seven hours' sleep. Whenever he is preparing for a great effort in the house of commons he always likes a short afternoon siesta. Bismarck has displayed a similar habit on the occasion of the most fierce parliamentary debates. When all-night sittings were common Parnell would go to his hotel, seek his bed and leave instructions with one of his colleagues to have him aroused whenever a crucial point was reached. These are only a few examples of the great men who have shown their thorough appreciation of that great boon which 'knits up the raveled sleeve of care.'"

BEECHER'S VOICE.

How the Great Minister Was Trained in Childhood.

From his infancy, Mr. Beecher's enlarged tonsils produced a thickness of speech, and this had been a source of anxiety to his father, fearing if it could not be remedied that he would never be able to preach, says the Ladies' Home Journal. But no better place could have been selected to overcome that trouble, and to make him faithful in his studies, than Mount Pleasant. His teacher compelled perfection in all his recitations. Through the efforts of another teacher the thickness of speech was overcome. He would drill the boy a whole hour on one word, make him take a position on a line in the middle of the floor, and tone, pronunciation, emphasis and gesture were rigorously practiced. Every inflection of the voice, gesture and articulation were repeated day after day, with such variations as his progress made necessary, until the pupil had himself, his voice and gestures trained and subdued to the right expression.

It will hardly appear credible to those who know Mr. Beecher only after he became a public speaker that such drilling could ever have been necessary. Surely, his father must have been almost inspired to have selected such a school for one with Mr. Beecher's peculiar characteristics. The place itself, the surroundings, his teachers and associates were wonderfully fitted to build him up for the work that came to him in more mature life.

CHAINS AND ANCHORS.

How the United States Makes Those Which It Uses.

In the manufacture of its own chains and anchors the United States claims to secure results otherwise unattainable on the score of strength and durability, even making its own iron, using nothing but the finest of malleable scrap, and the process is unique. The metal, says the New York Sun, as withdrawn from the furnace a glowing white mass, is rolled into long flat slabs of about one inch in thickness, which are cut up into short lengths, to be again subject to intense heat; these, being withdrawn, are rolled into billets of a few inches square at the ends and about two feet long, which are now for a third time thrust into the furnace, and at a white heat are taken out by means of large tongs suspended by a chain from an overhead trolley wheel, then rolled quickly into rods of various sizes and a number of feet long, being allowed to cool gradually in the air. The rods are now cut cold into short lengths for the links, which are formed by again heating and placing upon a special contrivance and turned into a staple shape, the staples being then linked together, completing the chain, the ends welded together by hand, the joining piece then put on—the link being then complete, so far as workmanship is concerned. To test the work, a long ditch running on one side of the shop is provided at one end with secure fastenings and at the other by a hydraulic engine, by means of which the chain is drawn tight and subjected to so many tons pressure, if, under this, a link breaks or exhibits any flaw, it is rejected.

Gladstone's Memory.

Mr. Gladstone is known among his colleagues in public life as "the man with the terrible memory," and yet it has been said of him that he has forgotten more than most British statesmen ever knew. His memory has always been good, but he has improved it greatly by forcing it to retain facts that other men make memoranda of and forget. When he was prime minister it was his practice to keep the run of all the details of business with the execution of which three secretaries were entrusted. Mr. Gladstone possesses the invaluable accomplishment of putting to use all the odd moments of his time. It is then that the bulk of his correspondence, which exceeds in volume that of any of his contemporaries, is disposed of. His autograph is more familiar to Englishmen than that of any other public man.

DEEDS OF A FIEND

Revenge of an Italian Chef Named Cognacci.

HURDERER LANDED IN JAIL

An Injured Husband Kills His Wife and Child and the Destroyer of His Home.

FLORENCE, June 6.—This city is greatly excited over a frightful tragedy. A cook named Cognacci, who has been considered one of the best artists in the culinary line, not in Florence alone but in Italy, and whose services have been in demand by nobles and princely houses at high pay, recently fell in love with and married a bright and pretty German woman named Marie Straubinger. Marie was a native of Munich and the pair were settled in the palace of Count Corazzi, Cognacci being chef and Marie a waitress. There the two lived happily for some time, Marie being apparently devoted to her Italian husband and he truly devoted to her. Count Corazzi had an intimate friend and frequent guest, a wealthy Florentine merchant named Alinari. The latter at Count Corazzi's palace saw Marie, and was deeply fascinated by her attractions. He made approaches to the girl which she virtuously ignored, and when he became bolder in his advances she repulsed him. The husband, Cognacci, was extremely jealous of any attention shown to his wife, and took occasion, when he was alone, to warn her against Alinari. On one occasion Cognacci was behaving a capon, and he held up the bleeding and fluttering fowl in front of Marie, and told her that if she ever proved false he would treat her just like that. Marie only laughed.

Killed While Asleep.

Alinari continued his attentions and at length he presents of money and other gifts, he succeeded in winning first Marie's toleration and then her favor. In the course of the past week there is no doubt Alinari and Marie were on terms of criminal intimacy. The situation did not escape the jealous vigilance of Cognacci, who, however, waited until he had absolute proof before taking the course upon which he had evidently resolved. That proof he obtained. He did not confront his wife with the charge of infidelity, but waited until he could see her asleep. Marie and her babe—for a child has been born to Marie and Cognacci—were in bed together, when the husband proceeded to take his horrible revenge. He seized his wife by the throat and speedily strangled her. Then he smothered the infant. He had with him a kitchen knife, and with this he severed his wife's head from her body. Leaving the dead baby weeping in the blood of its mother, Cognacci stole out of the palace and made his way to the residence of the seducer, Alinari. He forced his way into the house and rushed to the merchant's apartment. The terror-stricken servants followed as fast as they dared, but were in time only to hear Cognacci exclaim: "Ah, wretch, you robbed me of my wife and she is dead, with my infant, and now you must give me your child and your money." Alinari gave a terrible shriek for help, but almost at the same instant a pistol shot rang out and Alinari fell dead.

Cognacci then attempted to shoot himself, but the servants rushed upon him and secured him after a desperate struggle. The police were called and Cognacci was bound and taken to prison, where he lies raving about Marie and Alinari and his child, and calling for death to relieve him of his misery.

THE LAST DRINK

He Tried Made Him Sick, and Now He Cannot Bear the Smell.

OF EITHER WHISKEY OR BEER.

Some times since in El Paso, Texas, a man who had rarely ever been known to refuse a drink of liquor, was asked by an intimate friend to take a drink, whereupon he promptly refused, saying that he had not taken a drink for several days, and the last drink he tried to take made him sick, and says he cannot bear the smell of liquor now. The secret of the refusal was owing to this fact: His wife had secured through a friend, a pamphlet issued by the Golden Specific company, giving analysis of a wonderful remedy for the liquor habit. She secured the remedy, and gave it to him for rheumatism, as he was complaining a great deal, and after six or seven days, the above incident occurred.

In these days of cure-all-remedies-in-one-bottle, it is most satisfactory to be able to purchase a cure for some one thing, positive and permanent in its results, as Dr. Haines' Golden Specific is known to be for drunkenness. It's the liquor habit's deadly antagonist, which deals death to the drunk diseases and restores the patient to splendid health. At the present time there are many fake cures in the country for drunkenness, utterly worthless and unreliable, which accomplish anything else than the desired result. An analysis of many of the most popular remedies reveal the deadly Atropine and Strychnine. Fifteen years' trial the world over brings this Specific to the fore-front as the peerless remedy for a terrible habit, which is properly to be called a disease. It has a universal reputation, and its merits are known as widely in England and France as they are known in America. The features which commend this remedy to the public are: It is a positive cure for drunkenness. It is purely a home remedy. To be cured surrounded by home comforts, and kind friends, is most certainly preferable to being far from home for a protracted stay in some dreary sanitarium. Its cost is trifling; one package for three dollars often doing the work. Dr. Haines' Golden Specific may be secured from druggists or from the Golden Specific company, Cincinnati, Ohio, who furnish free a 48-page pamphlet, brim-full of information on the subject of "Drunkenness" Curable.

WARM WEATHER HAS COME AT LAST.

The Best Season of the Year to Treat Chronic Catarrh.

Understanding that a great number of people have been cured of chronic catarrh by taking Pe-ru-na during the past cold season, yet it can not be denied that the cold wet, backward spring has retarded many cures, and in some cases actually prevented a cure. But, after unusual delay, summer has come at last, and now is the time for all catarrh sufferers to begin a systematic course of treatment for this disease. The greatest difficulty in the way of treating chronic catarrh is that the patient is so liable to catch cold during the treatment, and thus delay a cure. This liability at this season of the year is, in a great measure, removed, and no one should neglect the opportunity to be given treatment.

The proper way to begin treatment for chronic catarrh is to take a tablespoonful of Pe-ru-na before each meal and at bedtime. This dose should be increased so that in one month the patient will be taking two tablespoonful at each dose; at which time a report of the case by letter should be made to Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio, and he will advise further. Every patient should have a copy of The Family Physician No. 2, which is a 32 page pamphlet, giving a complete description of the cause, symptoms and cure of chronic catarrh. Sent free to any address.

The Line of Lakes.

The above name has been applied to the Wisconsin Central lines on account of the large number of lakes and summer resorts tributary to its lines. Among some of the well known summer resorts are Fox Lake, Ill., Lake Villa, Ill., Waukegan, Mukwonago, Cedar Lake, Neenah, Waupaca, Friesland, Huron and Ashland, Wis. These lakes abound in numerous species of fish, such as black bass, rock bass, pickerel, pike, perch, muskallunge, while sportsmen will find an abundance of game, such as ducks, geese, quail, snipe, etc. In the grandeur of her scenery, the charming beauty of her rustic landscapes and the rare perfection of her summer climate, the state of Wisconsin is acknowledged to be without a peer in the union. Her fame as a refreshing retreat for the overheated, careworn inhabitants of the great cities during the midsummer months, has extended southward as far as the Gulf of Mexico and eastward to the Atlantic. Pamphlets giving valuable information can be obtained free upon application to A. A. Jack, D. P. A., Detroit, Mich., or James C. Pond, General Passenger and Ticket Agent, Chicago, Ill.
